

Special Needs Teacher, Kris Gentry and her Therapy Dogs do Yoga

Both dogs pictured are Certified Therapy dogs who work all day at Daisy Bronson Middle School in Littleton. Their names are Fletcher (the colly) and Boomer. When kids are anxious or having a bad day, they can access the dogs. Sitting on the floor, petting them, just as Tyler Tetrault is doing here, can relieve stress and help the kids be able to finish their day feeling good. It is hard to remain angry or upset when the dogs are wagging their tails and licking your face.
